The Narrows & Lover's Leap The Cumberland Narrows, a spectacular break in the Allegheny Mtn. (part of the greater Appalachian Mtn. region) with vertical rocky walls which rise more than 800 ft. above Wills Creek, U.S. 40 and the main line of the B & O Railroad. Legendary tales of Lovers Leap describe an Indian princess and an English settler who jumped to their deaths and an Indian Chief who also committed suicide here. It is possible during daylight hours to drive to the top of the eastern wall for a spectacular view of Cumberland and the Narrows.

George Washington's Headquarters The only remaining structure left of Fort Cumberland, circa 1755. Washington's military career began here as an aid-de-camp to Gen. Braddock. During the French & Indian War, Gen. Washington used this cabin as his official headquarters. His military career also ended here in 1794 when he reviewed American troops in full uniform for the last time following the Whiskey Rebellion. Located in Riverside Park, Greene St., in Cumberland. Though the cabin is not open, a window, offering a clear view of the entire interior, has been provided, along with an explanatory tape recording which visitors can start with a push of a button.
